On the Ribs

A smug "Jonathan Livingston Seagull" sits on the ribs of the earth and surveys his domain. This bird is fortunate among the creatures of the earth to fly a most spectacular coast and fish waters that are bountiful. The rock of the Maine coast rises from the underworld and the restless waves make them breathe. Seagull or man, there is none who and there congealed amid a boiling of steam and water. In the living rock the flow is visible today and the hollow bubbles that were gas are dimpled into the rock. Over the eons since, the breathing surf has washed and worn the rock. Each tide molds rock. Each thundering surf changes the plastic stone like the fingers of a sculptor. As the broken wave returns to the ocean, it wears the stone into the form of flowing water like a fall suddenly frozen. The bitter spray of winter claws at cracks, freezes expansively, chips away, quarrying stone block huge as whales. The molten stone flowed many times to the sea and each flow congealed into a strata of a unique composition and color. Now as the wearing process continues relentlessly the strata is quarried at a differing rate and a stairway for the giants is created. Mortals walk this staircase in wonder. Grinding stones have hollowed tidal pools which exposed by the receding tide are self-contained worlds in miniature. Algae and fiddler crabs share the sun warmed pool with a variety of shelled creatures. Each tiny living thing must somehow reach onto the rock and cling with enough determination to withstand a surf capable of wearing away the stone itself.

People come to this cliff, they climb, they gasp, they lose themselves in concert with the breathing of the sea as they rest upon the ribs of rock. If there is any common bond in mankind it is this meditation in rhythm with the sea and earth and all the creatures. No wonder "Jonathan" looks out with pride. Daily, he is blessed with

CAMDEN - The mainstream of summer visitors to the Maine coast flows through this town which has two spectacles of great beauty. From the west, the mountains march to the ocean and meet it at Camden. From those heights, the harbor is a shining oval filled with boats. The schooner trips embark here for voyages up and down the coast sailing among the hundreds of islands that dot Casco Bay and the peninsula above. The harbor of Camden is a magnet for all manner of small craft and from the park, which borders it, these boats speckle the water with color and life. Rising steeply from the harbor is the great hill that is Mt. Batty and from this outlook Camden becomes a toy town with the great expanse of the surrounding sea dotted with islands

Selectmen's Meeting

MATTAPOISETT

SEWER 42% COMPLETE

Tighe & Bond engineer Ron Michalski and project engineer Art Usher conferred with Mattapoisett Selectmen William Hubbard and John DeCosta on sewer construction progress. Mr. Michalski noted that the Bay Corporation has installed the footbridge over the Mattapoisett River. He said the bridge is of laminated wood construction and will carry the sewer pipe in the enclosed side section below the walkway. The bridge cost was $50,000 and was built above the 14 1/2 foot level above high water on the specification of the Coast Guard to protect it against flood waters and for navigational purposes. This puts the bridge at a higher level than the original railroad road bed which will be graded up to the bridge level. Mr. Michalski said that both contractors are moving as fast as can be expected. He said that the pumping station still does not appear to be much more than a hole in the ground but that base is the major part of the construction. He said the Bay Corporation is moving well with the possible exception of completion of hook-ups to the property lines and that some payment is being withheld in order to encourage these satellite connections so that streets can be closed and patched as soon as possible. Mr. Winfield Jenney appeared and requested that salt be used on the main pipe trench. He showed the engineers a photo of a truck on Church Street amid a cloud of dust. The engineers said that they had avoided the use of the salt because in other jobs homeowners complained about rug damage when salt was tracked into the house. They agreed that the dust problem was a serious one and they would request the Bay Corporation to salt the dirt filled trenches in the effort to keep it down. Mr. Michalski noted that federal money for their share of the project is finally beginning to flow in and told Selectmen that through the efforts of Representative William MacLean's office the State is finally showing some signs that contributions from that area might be forthcoming. No money had been received from the State to pay their obligation as of this meeting. Mr. Michalski asked the Selectmen to set up a conference for next month to make a first draft of sewer use fees and the methods to determine them.

"I'm bored, there's nothing to do around here."

"Yeah, me too."

"Let's go to Boston."

"Too far to drive and it's hot."

"Oh. But there's nothing to do in New Bedford."

How many times have you played out this conversation? Too many times, right? Well what about the Arts Center? What Arts Center? The one at 71 Maxfield Street. You didn't know about the Center or you forgot it was here or figured nothing was going on that you'd be interested in or maybe you were just nervous about walking into a new place? Forget all that and come down to see us.

But who is 'Us'? O.K. fair enough. 'Us' is the group of seven new Artists-in-Residence that the Center has acquired under a new CETA grant. Bobby Greene, saxophontute staff and director Boris Goldovsky.

On Tuesday, July 18th, the accomplished concert musicians of the Institute staff performed chamber music in the Recital Hall of the Fine Arts Group VI Building. The program included a trio and a composition for soprano by Mozart; the Premiere Rhapsodie for clarinet and piano by Debussy, the Brahms Sonata in E-flat Major, Brahms horn trio, and the Vivaldi Concerto in G minor for flute, oboe, violin, bassoon, bass and piano.

On Friday, July 21, and Saturday, July 22, the SMU Auditorium will ring with the lively music of Johann Strauss' beloved opera Die Fledermaus. It is a light-hearted musical tale of sly deception, flirtation, and no few twists of plot, and Boris Goldovsky's advanced students will play and sing it to the hilt.

Novice opera fans will feel right at home: Goldovsky's production of Fledermaus will be in English. He believes in directing his students in English versions of famous operas because, as he has said, "How are they going to learn to act and move around the stage if they are singing in a foreign language? They won't know what they are talking about!"

Conductor, performer and teacher Boris Goldovsky, who has directed opera workshops each summer for the past eight years at SMU, is known to millions of radio listeners for his intermission commentaries during the Metropolitan Opera broadcasts. He is the artistic director of the Goldovsky Institute and Opera Company in New York City, and head of the opera department at the Curtis Institute of Music. He has directed the opera departments at the New England Conservatory of Music, at the Berkshire Music Center at Tanglewood, and at the Cleveland Institute of Music. He has long been active in organizing opera workshops and training programs throughout the country.

Each summer, Goldovsky's international reputation draws advanced students of operatic singing, orchestra, and conducting from all over the country. Many of the young artists already have extensive stage experience in this country and Europe. They come to SMU to gain polish and the chance to perform leads in quality operatic produc-

SUPPORTS BOTTLE BILL TO REDUCE LITTER

Think about every time you throw away
a bottle or a can. Or maybe you'd better not if you want to sleep well at night. It is not pleasant to think that dump sites are being exhausted, and our roadsides and woods are strewn with litter.

Have you ever been to Mary's Pond? It is a lovely little spring fed body of water rimmed around with garbage. Unfortunately, it is not unique. There is no spot in the United States, unless it is privately owned and remorselessly patrolled, that is not contaminated by the remains of hikers, picnickers, and swimmers. One Sierra hiker has made the statement that he had never been in a place isolated enough not to see the ubiquitous beer can. And, incidentally, have you ever known a person to be fined for littering? Thousands of traffic tickets are issued every day, but how many for litter?

Bottlers piously stamp on their bottles and cans do not litter then throw all of their resources into the fight to defeat the Bottle Bill which would bring back returnables. They have employed a remarkable number of people to disseminate a remarkable number of lies to maintain their own little paradise of profits.

Like Hitler they believe in the Big Lie (the bigger the more convincing) viz..that if the Bottle Bill is passed then the consumer will pay more for his beverage. Now drinks in returnables are going to cost you less not more. But as Hitler figured out any statement no matter how damaging or ridiculous will be believed ultimately if it is yelled enough or printed enough. Another Hitler weapon in this war against sanity and conservation are their scare tactics. They wave the spectre of no jobs..unemployment and a lot of misguided people have voted against the bill for precisely that reason. Most certainly there will be layoffs, but there will also be the necessity for parallel jobs in recycling.

Perhaps their next tactic will be to stamp on their bottles waste is American. Right on, chum..throw it away!

Don't forget that Coca Cola and most other beverage companies are working hard right

DUFF PLUMBING ANNOUNCES

We have added another truck to our fleet expressly for the Marion, Wareham & Rochester area residents. We have had such an increase in calls that we have decided to install a direct, toll-free "Hot Line" for these customers. We have our plumber, Chet, who is a local resident and knows the area well. He will have a well-stocked supply of plumbing needs right at hand.

Are you disappointed to find yourself waiting two days for a plumber, then have him arrive with a helper to carry the tool box, and receive a bill for two men? We pride ourselves on sending one man on service calls.

We take good care of our old customers; it's new customers we are looking for.

WANTS ACCESS AS GRANTED BY TOWN VOTE

More than three months have gone by since our town meeting granted me access that I requested for my garden lot. As of the date of this letter, nothing has been done to remove the sections of stone-wall, derelict street-sweeper and sections of pipe previously placed across the roadway. In fact nine large sections of cement drainage pipes have been added to further block access in the last four weeks. Apparently Mr. Manuel Nunes, our Highway Surveyor, pays no more attention to an edict of the Mattapoisett Town Meeting than he has to the Selectmen who have been trying to get his cooperation on this matter for several weeks.

There was no necessity for this controversy in the first place. There has been a roadway through the former sand and gravel pit for many years. Mr. Nunes decided by himself that we had no right of way legally to such an entrance. It cost Mr. Nunes nothing to block the entrance, but it would cost us several thousand dollars to establish our legal right of entrance, which we are advised that we probably could, and our use of the land does not justify this expense. Only once in five years have we been able to bring in a truck load of loam, giving us only about a four inch base for a garden -- not nearly enough.

Even though the Selectmen held a hearing three years ago before installing a large gasoline tank in back of the highway garage, and I only acceded to its installation with the provision that the accessway would be kept open, the only response that I was able to get was "Did you get it in writing?" At the time I did not think this necessary. I know better now.

Several months ago, with no notice to abutters and no hearing, the Highway Surveyor brought equipment in and completely stripped and leveled practically all the town land back of the highway garage -- some two acres. Without regard to ecology all but a fringe of trees were felled and removed. Twice as much land was cleared as would be needed for addition to the highway garage and sand piles. Apparently the Selectmen had not been advised of his intent, as they indicated when we called it to their attention.

If space for storage of pipe and materials for the Bay Corporation was provided, as the use of it would seem to indicate, then certainly a hearing on such use should have been held. There is no provision for industrial or commercial use in our residential area. But in changing the level of the land, Mr. Nunes has violated the law. The natural drainage down the old roadway is gone and water (and possibly salty water) now backs up on the land of the residential abutters -- the Johnsons and the Rochettes. Worst of all from the standpoint of the townspeople, the former shallow hole on town land just back of my residence is now completely filled with stagnant water coated with floating vegetation, capable of breeding hundreds of mosquitoes. Formerly the small amount of water usually dried up by now. The mosquito control sprayer remarked at the difference. I doubt if he can control the mosquito larvae here.

Our Highway Surveyor loves to bask in the glory of favorable publicity, such as President of the Highway Surveyors and as the mover and installer of the big monument rock at Shipyard Park. We do not begrudge him such credit. We do think that he often forgets that he is an elected official of the town paid to serve equally all town residents as required, and not a "head of state" on the same level as our Selectmen and requiring them to "request" him to perform a job that is part of his duties and for which he is being paid.

N.E. Plant Booklet

PUBLICATION FROM DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE'S SOIL CONSERVATION SERVICE "Conservation Plants for the Northeast" is a new publication of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service (SCS). This 40-page booklet features full-color photographs of 60 different conservation plants and describes their various uses. Some of the plants can be used on hard-to-seed or disturbed areas. Others are valuable for wildlife food and protective cover. Some can be used as windbreaks, screens, hedges, or ornamental ground covers.

"Conservation Plants for the Northeast" tells where the plants will grow, their height at maturity, what kind of soil is needed, and when and how they should be planted. Photographs show the color of blossoms or berries. There is also information on the value of given plants for different types of wildlife.

Pink crownvetch, yellow trefoil, purple periwinkle, and white chokecherry are only a few of the blossoms pictured. According to Edward G. Konieczny, SCS District Conservationist in Raynham, this booklet describes plants tested and selected by the SCS for use in solving conservation problems, but the illustrations show that most of the plants will also add great beauty to any landscape.

Single copies of "Conservation Plants for the Northeast" are available from the Bristol and Plymouth Conservation Districts of the SCS office located at 153 Broadway, Raynham, Massachusetts.

Loose windows
are a waste.

QUAKER®

Replacement
window channels
are a groove.

- It's the only compression system that can be installed without any special skills.
- An ingenious holding device and stainless steel/ aluminum construction assure satisfactory operation for the life of the windows.
- Its gentle spring-pressured resistance against both the inner and outer portions of the sash means your windows will move up and down just as smoothly in ten or twenty years as they do the day of installation.

We don't believe in wasting time. Or energy. That's why the sooner you use QUAKER Window
..Repair Kits, the better off you will be. QUAKER® Replacement Window Channels are the effective way to conserve precious energy. Seals out dust, dirt, weather...locks
in air conditioning and heat. They're easier to install than a new window
and at a fraction of the cost!

Quaker Channels fit
standard 1 3/4" wood sash.
